THE TALK OF THE CAMPUS

Need For Arts

PRESIDENT Ellis of Juniata, recognizing the "revolutionary change" brought about by television, has emphasized that the need continues "for personal contact with the performer and lecturer" in the arts program of the Association of American Colleges. In reviewing his report presented to the Association's 39th annual meeting in Los Angeles, Dr. Ellis stated that "entertainment via the air waves is vastly different from what is available through the arts program."

Dr. Ellis is chairman of the 12-member Commission on the Arts of the Association of American Colleges. This commission supervises an extensive non-profit arts program which provides lectures in the fine arts, humanities, and science for colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Commencement Speaker

JUNIATA'S Commencement in June will have its emphasis on religious history with Dr. Roland H. Bainton, educator and author from Yale University, as speaker. The exercises are set for June 1.

Dr. Bainton, Titus Street professor of ecclesiastical history at Yale since 1936, is one of the nation's foremost specialists in church history. He is widely known for his books on Martin Luther.

Born in England, Dr. Bainton was graduated from Whitman College in 1914 and received his advance degrees from Yale University. He has been a member of the Yale faculty since 1920.

Open House

THE ADMISSIONS and public relations offices are holding a series of "Open House Weekends" for secondary school students to visit the campus in February, March and April. Visitors have a chance to live in the college residence halls, eat in the college dining room, discuss future plans with faculty in specific fields, and enjoy campus social and recreational activity.

'Secret' For Twins

JUNIATA'S department of chemistry must have the "secret" for multiple births.

The arrival of twin boys, Jon and Tim, on Washington's birthday for the wife of Dr. Raymond T. Davis, Jr., professor of chemistry, provided the second set of twins in the department — and the only sets in the entire faculty. Mrs. Davis is the former Evelyn Edkins '44.

Department chairman Dr. Donald M. Rockwell and his wife, a former member of the faculty in chemistry, have 11-year-old twins, Jim and Susan, in their family.

Just to make it unanimous, the remaining professor in Juniata's chemistry department, Dr. Eva Hartzler '32, has a twin sister.

578 Enrolled

A TOTAL of 578 students in all classifications is registered for the Spring term at Juniata, according to an official enrollment summary. This represents a net loss of only 26 students — slightly more than four per cent — from the Fall term. There were 604 enrolled last September.

The official report shows that 326 men and 252 women are enrolled. Of these, 471 are listed as resident students and 84 as non-resident. There are 23 unclassified specials, most of whom are taking instruction in music.

Seventeen classified and 11 special students are new registrants for the current term. Seven of the 17 are former students returning to resume college work; seven are transfers and three entered as freshmen.

Instructor Named

IN ORDER to fill a vacancy in the department of economics and business administration for the Spring term, President Ellis appointed Thomas J. Nolan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., as instructor. Nolan, a graduate of King's College, Wilkes-Barre, had been a graduate assistant at Penn State. He is teaching the courses scheduled for Dr. S. Lees Booth, professor of economics, who resigned to accept an appointment with the U. S. Department of State. Dr. Booth is serving as economic analyst in the Office of Intelligence Research, Washington, D. C.

Bequest of $9,000

JUNIATA College has received a bequest of $9,000 from the will of the late Dr. Gaius M. Brumbaugh, prominent Washington, D. C. physician and honorary chairman of the board of trustees, who died May 14, 1952, after a lifetime of service to Juniata.

In announcing the bequest, President Calvert N. Ellis of Juniata stated that $7,000 has been added to the endowment of the Dr. Andrew B. and Maria F. Brumbaugh science prize fund and $2,000 to the Mary Eliza (Steele) Buckley scholarship fund.

One of three members of the first graduating class in 1879, Dr. Brumbaugh had served 40 years as an active member of the board and was chairman from 1936 to 1948. He died in Washington at the age of 90.

Dr. Brumbaugh established three science prizes of $100 each in memory of his parents, the late Dr. Andrew B. Brumbaugh (one of three founders of Juniata College) and Maria F. Brumbaugh. These prizes are awarded annually only to students who graduate with distinction in biology, chemistry or physics.

The Buckley scholarship was established in 1934 by Mrs. Anna T. Secker of Washington, D. C., in memory of her mother, Mary Eliza (Steele) Buckley. It provides for a part-scholarship to a student in Juniata College.

Chemist Visits

ON THE Juniata campus for a two-day lecture and discussion assignment Feb. 12-13, Dr. Edward C. Fuller headlined his visit with an Oller Hall address entitled "Science — Friend or Foe." A professor of chemistry at Champlain College, Dr. Fuller has a distinguished background in the teaching of science and is a former president of Bard College. His visit was sponsored by the arts program of the Association of American Colleges.

Coed Named Editor

Jeanie W. Tait '54, 1021 Tyson Ave., Roslyn (Montgomery County), Pa., has been named editor of The Juniatian. Miss Tait, an English major, is the first coed to edit the paper since Betty White Yoder '47.

'Pull of Future'

THE "pull of the future" was described as more important than "the push of life from behind" by the Rev. Howard C. Scharfe, pastor of Shadyside Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh in his address at Juniata's Winter Convocation on Jan. 26.

Dr. Scharfe emphasized "the force that pulls from the front" as he spoke to four mid-year graduates and the combined faculty and student body for the opening of the Spring term.

President Ellis presided at the Convocation and Dean Morley Mays presented the candidates for degrees. Recipients were: Mrs. Elizabeth Dively Gates, Bellwood (bachelor of arts); Jesse R. Frye, Mount Union; Nancy E. Rogers, Pen Argyl; and Mrs. Pauline Bane Shaffer, Burlington, W. Va. (all bachelor of science).

TOP SCOUT in the Huntingdon area is Dr. Donald M. Rockwell (right), head of the department of chemistry at Juniata. The college professor has been cited for "exceptional service to youth" as an educator, churchman, and scouter. Presenting the Silver Beaver award is his oldest son, Kenneth, a Star Scout.

16 on Dean's List

SIXTEEN students, 10 men and 6 women, have been named to the Dean's List of Distinguished Students for the Fall term by Dean Morley Mays. Students were required to have at least a 2.75 out of a possible 3.00 average.

The complete list announced by Dr. Morley Mays, dean of the college follows:

Joyce E. Hardesty, 556 Ridgeway St., Greensburg (freshman); Margaret Ann Hershey, 314 Linden St., Lititz (sophomore); J. Scott Hommer, Jr., 1208 Cameron Ave., Tyrone (sophomore); Thomas M. Hoover, 1321 Washington St., Huntingdon (senior); Phyllis R. Link, 116 Violet St., Johnstown (senior).

Spiritual Emphasis

JUNIATA'S annual Spiritual Life Week was held Feb. 8-13 with Dr. Charles Dewey Spotts, religious writer and educator, as guest minister. Dr. Spotts, chairman of the department of religion at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, was on the campus for three days to lead discussions. The week's activities got under way Sunday in the homes of five faculty members when the basic question was analyzed: "Is There Meaning In Life?"

Grant From DuPont

JUNIATA College has been selected by the Du Pont Company as one of 19 four-year private colleges in the nation to receive a grant of $2,500 for 1953-54 "to help them maintain their outstanding performance in the training of students majoring in chemistry."

Announcement of the award from Crawford H. Greenewalt, president of the Du Pont Company, stated that the grant "is in recognition of the outstanding record of your chemistry department in the education of chemistry majors as evidenced in part by the number it has prepared and encouraged to complete their education at the postgraduate level in the universities."

The funds are to be used according to the judgment of the colleges themselves as to what will best advance teaching and stimulate interest in chemistry.

This new Du Pont plan of awarding grants to selected colleges is considered "not only a recognition of the important place in American education held by the colleges, but especially of their success in training high-quality graduates in science and sending them on to graduate schools."

In addition to Juniata College, the $2,500 awards were made to three other top-ranking colleges in Pennsylvania: Franklin and Marshall, Haverford College, and Swarthmore College. The remaining grants were among institutions from coast to coast.

Theater-in-the-Round

"Theater-in-the-round" returned to Juniata in March when the Masque, campus dramatics group, presented The Importance of Being Earnest as an arena production on the stage of Oller Hall. The show was scheduled for eight nights, March 4-7 and 11-14.

Student Leaders

BERNARD A. PETRUSKY '54, a World War II veteran from Brisbin (Clearfield county), has been elected president of Student Senate in all-college elections. He succeeds Robert E. Wagoner '53, Johnstown.

Petrusky, a junior majoring in history and political science, served in the Army for six years prior to his enrollment at Juniata in 1950.

Other officers selected for the top student government positions were: Robert P. Bridenbaugh '54, Martinsburg, vice-president; Juanita Carfora '54, Toms River, N. J., secretary; and Robert H. Fahrney '54, Harrisburg, central treasurer.

Forestry Program

DUKE University has selected Juniata College to participate with 20 colleges in a new nation-wide forestry training program.

Students in the program will follow a three-year coordinated study program in the basic arts and sciences at Juniata. At the end of this period, students who show "exceptional promise for professional development" will transfer to the Duke School of Forestry for two years of specialized training.

"Duke University welcomes the opportunity to help liberal arts colleges serve their students in this area of specialized interest," according to Duke President Hollis Edens. "The program will enable students to prepare for professional forestry training without sacrificing a well-rounded education in the humanities and sciences."

Both the bachelor's degree and the master of forestry degree may be earned during a five-year period under provisions of the program which have been approved by the curriculum committee and faculty of Juniata College.

Commenting on the arrangement, Dean Morley Mays stated that "Juniata is particularly pleased to cooperate with Duke University's School of Forestry in a program that has been carefully planned. It should prove of value to both institutions."

Choir On Tour

THE JUNIATA College Choir, an outstanding musical group of 26 mixed voices augmented by a string-wind ensemble, is giving 30 concerts in its 21st season. Under the direction of Prof. Donald S. Johnson, the choir toured western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland in late January and is making one-day trips to various churches in the Spring. Schools and churches were visited on the tour and radio broadcasts were scheduled.

For Church School

THE JUNIATA College program of short courses in adult education included two courses designed primarily for church school leaders. This program, which began Monday, Feb. 16, is a successor to the Community Leadership Training school previously conducted by the Huntingdon County Sunday School Association.

Juniata College was requested to carry this program last year as part of its Community Educational Services.

Guest Artist

SISTER HELENE, an outstanding sculptor, designer and painter, visited the Juniata campus January 9-10 for a series of demonstrations and discussions as a guest artist appearing under the arts program of the Association of American Colleges. Two of her programs were open to the public.

Religious Pageant

JUNIATA'S chapel choir presented its seventh annual Christmas pageant in Oller Hall December 14 as a fitting pre-Christmas public presentation. Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer directed the 26-voice choir and a cast of 16 in presentation of "The Pageant of the Holy Nativity," a religious spectacle.

Student Fund Drive

John J. Freymuller '54, 1221 Hamilton St., Stroudsburg, Pa., served as chairman of the students' fund-raising campaign at the College. The drive for the Juniata World Service fund was held Feb. 23-28.

Concert Organist Appears

Marilyn Mason, attractive young concert organist from the University of Michigan who has won nationwide acclaim, presented an organ recital in Oller Hall Sunday, March 1. The college presented the concert as a public service entertainment.

Operation Cooperation

STUDENT WORKERS made short work of clearing out the basement. The old locker room equipment cage disappeared to make way for the Student Center.

ARTIST'S DRAWING of the finished book store section of the Student Center shows a modern, well-equipped area attractively decorated in Indian theme.

STUDENTS at Juniata have volunteered free labor to start a co-operative project which they have long desired—a new Student Center.

Demolition operations have already begun in the basement of the Women's Gymnasium where the center will be constructed. The student-directed workers have carried out lockers and other storage equipment; removed the ceiling covering; torn out and salvaged light wood and partitions; knocked down and removed partition walls.

Not only will the students help to build the center, but they also plan to assist in raising $20,000 for essential materials and construction costs. Russell A. Hill '55, Orange, N. J., is chairman of the Student Center Planning Committee which is directing the project.

'A Student Project'

In requesting college permission to proceed with "Operation Cooperation," the committee emphasized that "it considers the Student Center a student project . . . we do not deem it our right to ask the college for the Student Center without planning to contribute something ourselves when there are such serious needs as new dormitories."

Chairman Hill explained that the architect's plans have been accepted and artist's sketches of interior decorations were approved by the student committee. The decorative theme will be Indian colors and ideas to fit the Juniata tradition.

The basement area of the Women's Gym will be divided into three main sections: (1) snack bar and recreational area, (2) lounge, (3) book store. A campus post office also will be included in plans.

Campus student leaders received the "green light" early in this college year to complete plans for the Student Center which would be constructed primarily with student labor. Approval of the project came from the Planning Commission of the board of trustees.

All-Student Committee

Prior to this time, the students had organized a committee "to investigate and publicize the proposal for a Student Center" with Hill as chairman. His original committee included: M. Allegra Forney '55, Martinsburg; W. Remle Grove '55, Haddon Heights, N. J.; James Q. Holsopple, Jr. '54, Washington, D.C.; Rayallen Hoover '34, Hollidaysburg; Joanne M. Pentz '53, Pottstown; and Helen A. Rosengren, '54, Philadelphia.

Since then, John A. Dale '54, Curwensville, and William R. Brumbaugh '54, Duncansville, have replaced Holsopple and Hoover, and six others have been added. They are David A. Bayer '53, Woodbury, N. J.; Robert P. Bridenbaugh '54, Martinsburg; I. Louise Gehman '54, Windber; Suzanne E. Jamison '55, North Plainfield, N. J.; Kathryn E. Keeler '56, Harleyville; and John T. Yates '56, Hagerstown, Md.

The center, scheduled for completion in the fall, will be operated by the students as a non-profit organization.

It will be managed by a committee of three including a full-time manager, the College treasurer, and a student selected by the Senate, to determine day-to-day policy. A customs committee appointed by Senate will represent the students in matters pertaining to the use of the Center.

The present plan is to use a percentage of each year's operating profits to amortize the money invested in the Center by the college.

50 Years of Ball

THE COLLEGE'S baseball team will observe the 50th season of Juniata's oldest sport with a 16-game schedule this spring opening on April 14.

Baseball began for Juniata in 1899 when the Indians played their first game with the Huntingdon "town boys" and won 12-5. The team went on to register a 5-1 record—still one of the best. In 49 recorded seasons, Juniata has a winning .549 record with 281 victories, 231 defeats, and two ties.

The 1953 card includes eight home and eight away contests with 11 opponents which have been met in previous seasons. Lycoming, Lebanon Valley, Elizabethtown, Indiana STC and Susquehanna will be faced in home-and-away games. An exhibition tilt with an alumni team is scheduled again for Alumni Day, May 30.

Coach Bill Smaltz has been holding indoor warmup drills in Juniata's Memorial Gym in preparation for his seventh season. His team last year won 10, lost 4.

The schedule: April 14, Lycoming, away; April 16, Lebanon Valley, home; April 18, Elizabethtown, home; April 22, Shippensburg, home; April 25, Lebanon Valley, away; April 28, Bucknell, away; April 29, Indiana STC, home.

May 2, Susquehanna, away; May 4, Pitt, away; May 6, Dickinson, away; May 9, Elizabethtown, away; May 11, Indiana STC, away; May 13, Albright, home; May 15, Susquehanna, home; May 23, Lycoming, home; May 30, Alumni, home.

The Juniata Sports Parade

Cage Records Fall

WHILE Juniata College's 1953 court team did not dazzle the basketball world generally, it revamped the Juniata record books specifically by setting seven new records despite a losing 9-11 record.

Not often does a freshman play the role of record-breaker, but Jake Handzelek of Mocanaqua, Pa., in his first season, shattered Juniata's all-time scoring record and set a new average per game mark.

Handzelek and Dave Pollock, Berwick, Pa., sophomore captain, led Dr. T. Arnold Greene's cagers to a new Juniata offense scoring record in the college's best season in seven years. The pair netted a total of 774 points in 20 games for 54 per cent of Juniata's record total of 1434. The team average was a high 71.7.

Handzelek, who spearheaded Shickshinny high school's team to the Eastern PIAA finals last year, obliterated the eight-year-old Juniata scoring record with a sizzling 35 points against Dickinson on Feb. 21. His season's total was 473 for a 23.7 average in 20 games and ranked him among the top 20 in the nation. The previous record of 353 in 20 games was established by Dick Wareham, now assistant coach at McPherson College, Kansas, in 1944-45.

Then, too, Jumpin' Jake's 23.7 average per game is way ahead of the former record of 18.5 set by Karl Park of Johnstown in 1950-51.

But cracking records is "old stuff" for the former Shickshinny sharpshooter. He scored 1008 points in his senior year at Class B Shickshinny which is considered a PIAA scoring record for both Class A and B. He averaged 32.5 points per game in the regular season and better than that as his school advanced in tournament play.

Handzelek once scored 59 points in one high school game against Forty Fort and has hit 44 in the PIAA playoffs.

In his first year of college ball, Handzelek's single game high was 38

HANDZELEK AND POLLICK
Top Scoring Combo

against Bucknell—only five points off the record of 43 set by Pollock against Lebanon Valley last season. Jake's 38 established a new court record for the Bucknell floor. Twice he netted 35.

With Handzelek and Pollock (who live only 10 miles apart in Luzerne county) forming the finest one-two scoring combination in Juniata's 49 seasons, the Tribe quintet is "the best in seven years."

A fifth record was established by Pollock when he became the first man in Juniata's 49 seasons of basketball to score more than 300 points in two successive seasons. He tallied 301 this year after dumping 304.

Two other records fell when Lebanon Valley, which whipped Fordham in NCAA playoffs, overpowered the Indians 116-75 early in the season. The 116 was a record high for opponents exceeding 102 also set by Lebanon Valley in 1951-52; and the two-team total of 191 points topped the former mark of 180.

Walt Vanderbush, 6-6 freshman from W. Orange, N. J., and Howie Kerstetter, the Shamokin sparkplug, also topped 100 points for the season. Kerstetter led the team in foul shooting with 75.4 percent.

Cinder and Court

THE INDIANS' 1953 track schedule will include a triangular meet at home, four dual meets, the Penn Relays and Middle Atlantic championships. In addition, Mike Snider released an eight-match tennis schedule which includes home engagements with Elizabethtown, Pitt, Albright and Lycoming.

Bucknell and Gettysburg will be met in the annual three-way track contest here Friday, May 1. In addition, a dual meet with Albright is slated at home and meets with Shippensburg STC, Lebanon Valley and Dickinson are listed away in April.

TRACK

April 15, Shippensburg STC, Shippensburg; April 18, Lebanon Valley, Annville; April 22, Dickinson, Carlisle; April 24-25, Penn Relays, Philadelphia; May 1, Bucknell-Gettysburg-Juniata, home; May 9, Albright, home; May 15-16, MASCTF championships at Franklin & Marshall, Lancaster.

TENNIS

Golfers Ready

THE GOLF team of Juniata will carry the college's best record in intercollegiate sports into the seventh season by participating in nine dual matches and two tournaments on its 1953 card.

Juniata's golfers have won 41, lost 7, tied 1 and have been unbeaten and untied in 23 straight matches on the home course over a six-year period. They will be defending champions for the second year in the fourth annual Juniata College invitational tournament on May 9.

The Juniata 36-hole medal tournament, held at the American Legion Country Club near Mount Union, has been scheduled as the golf championship event for the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference. More than 50 golfers have participated each season in this tournament.

Dr. Ed Kiracofe's golfers will open their dual match season on April 22 with Dickinson at Huntingdon Country Club. There will be six home and three away matches. In addition, a four-man team will compete for the fifth year in the Western Maryland Invitational tournament at Westminster, Md.

The 1953 schedule: April 22, Dickinson, home; April 24, St. Francis, away; April 28, Albright, home; May 1, Bucknell, away; May 4, Pitt, home; May 8, Western Maryland, home; May 9, Juniata invitation, Mt. Union; May 13, Franklin & Marshall, home; May 15, Johns Hopkins, away; May 16, Western Maryland tournament, Westminster, Md.; May 30, Alumni, home.

Site for NAIA Playoffs

Juniata's Memorial Gym was the site for the State finals in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' basketball playoffs on March 5 when Geneva swept past Millersville STC 71-57 to win the District 30 berth in Kansas City tournament.

Largest Crowd In Gym

The District 6 PIAA playoff contest between undefeated Hollidaysburg and highly touted Lock Haven drew nearly 1,500 into Memorial Gym on March 10 for the largest crowd of the season. Hollidaysburg won 49-38.

Dr. "N. J." Passes

MEMORIAL services were held Wednesday, Feb. 18, for Dr. Norman J. Brumbaugh '06, retired chemist and educator who died Sunday night, Feb. 15, 1953, after devoting most of his life to the advancement of science at Juniata College.

The services were held in the Stone Church of the Brethren with President Calvert N. Ellis officiating. Burial was in Riverview Cemetery, Huntingdon.

The 68-year-old retired professor had been in ill health since June and was a patient in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, since Dec. 27, 1952. He died in Jefferson.

Dr. Norman J. Brumbaugh retired in June 1949 after 28 years of service to the college from which he was graduated in 1906. During this period, he established the department of chemistry in 1925 and developed it into one of distinction in the scientific world.

Born in Huntingdon, Pa., April 16, 1884, son of Jacob H. and Rachael Jodon Brumbaugh, Dr. Brumbaugh has traveled extensively and devoted his life to the advancement of science.

His "undeviating loyalty to Juniata College" stems from his relationship to the founders of the college. His father was a brother of Dr. A. B. Brumbaugh, one of the three founders. For 21 years, his father was principal of the Brethren's Normal College and "perhaps no man has been so near the heart of the school."

After completing undergraduate work and receiving a bachelor of arts degree from Juniata in 1906, Dr. Brumbaugh began concentrated study in the natural sciences. He studied at Harvard University from 1906 to 1910; taught physics and chemistry at Juniata for four years; then returned to Harvard to receive his master's degree in 1915.

From 1915 to 1920 he was graduate assistant in chemistry at the University of Pennsylvania. He then served as Harrison Scholar and Fellow at Penn for two years before being granted the Ph.D. degree in 1922.

Norman Jodon Brumbaugh

Dr. Brumbaugh was a faculty instructor in chemistry at Pennsylvania for two years; then, as a Scandinavian-American Fellow he studied at the University of Copenhagen in Denmark for one year prior to returning to Juniata in 1925 as professor of chemistry and head of the department.

In the 24 years that Dr. Brumbaugh was its head, the department of chemistry at Juniata rose to national prominence. The excellent records made by its alumni in graduate schools was a deciding factor in Juniata's acceptance into the Association of American Universities.

At the time of his retirement in 1949, Juniata was one of only 16 colleges and universities in Pennsylvania on an American Chemical Society listing of institutions approved by the Committee on Professional Training for undergraduate instruction in chemistry. He was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science by Juniata on his retirement.

Specific evidence of the enviable position of the department of chemistry under Dr. Brumbaugh was found in the report of the Scientific Research Board. The report said: "Many of the small institutions have, in the past, contributed scientists out of all proportion to the number of their students. Over the period, 1936 to 1945, Hope College, Juniata College, Monmouth College, St. Olaf's College, and Oberlin College combined produced more candidates for doctor's degrees in chemistry than did Johns Hopkins, Fordham, Columbia, Tulane and Syracuse Universities all together.

This year (1953), Juniata College was selected by the DuPont Company as one of 19 four-year private colleges in the nation to receive a grant "to help them maintain their outstanding performance in the training of students majoring in chemistry."

Dr. "N.J.", as he was known to all, was interested in the "whole man," not only the leather-aproned handler of reagents. In his undergraduate days, he established a college record of 10 seconds in the 100-yard dash which has been equalled only twice since 1906.

In 1909, he won the county tennis championship. From 1920 to 1924 he was secretary-treasurer of the Philadelphia Fencer's club. He always has been a spirited baseball fan.

In other provinces of knowledge, Dr. Brumbaugh delighted in meeting a challenge, and has considered the intricacies of foreign languages and color photography among his hobbies. Definitely interested in orchestral and chamber music, he for many years played the oboe in the College orchestra. He was, in fact, one of the founders of the orchestra.

His interest in travel and a collection of orchids also were numbered among his hobbies in a busy lifetime.

At his retirement dinner, however, Dr. Brumbaugh brushed aside all praise as he modestly said that all measure of his success was "due to a predestined conception that his environment and heredity determined."

This sense of duty, or a compelling "could not do otherwise," has enabled Dr. Norman Jodon Brumbaugh to be a "great" man in the growth of Juniata College.

'Distinguished Teacher—Christian Gentleman'

A TRIBUTE to the memory of the late Dr. Norman J. Brumbaugh, was presented in memorial services held in the Stone Church of the Brethren Wednesday, Feb. 18.

In the services, President Calvert N. Ellis spoke of the retired professor as "a distinguished teacher and Christian gentleman." The Rev. John C. Middlekauff, pastor of the church, presented the invocation, and Prof. S. Earl Dubbel, a colleague on the faculty, read the scripture and offered a prayer.

In his tribute, President Ellis said: "We meet to honor the memory of a dear friend, a distinguished teacher and Christian gentleman — a son of College Hill and a devoted and faithful lover of Juniata College.

Norman Jodon Brumbaugh was a nephew of the late Dr. A. B. Brumbaugh, one of the founders of Juniata College. His father, Professor Jacob H. Brumbaugh, was the principal of the Brethren's Normal College from 1879 and for almost 60 years was intimately associated with the life of Juniata College.

We gather to honor the memory of one who was undeviating in his loyalty to the college on the hill. Dr. Brumbaugh had one passion in life, and that was the welfare of Juniata College. In the years that he was away from Huntingdon, as well as the years following his retirement, his thoughts and concerns were always for the progress of Juniata.

He had an inquiring mind of a scientist and the love of a teacher for his students. They were his children. He followed the career of each with satisfaction and admiration.

We are sorrowful at our friend's death, and yet we would be unworthy of his friendship if our sorrow were not suffused with a feeling of triumph. Norman J. Brumbaugh was integrity personified. He was himself a triumphant person. He lived each day a vigorous and creative life filled with achievement and friendship. Once having gained a friend, there was never any question about his keeping him.

Dr. Brumbaugh was a scholar as well as a scientist. He was enthusiastic about the arts, whether literature, music or photography. He brought the Juniata College symphony orchestra into being and was a faithful performer. Lately he was interested in linguistics and always was concerned for the college library.

Dr. Brumbaugh was a member of this church from his youth and served for a number of years on its board of trustees.

It was my privilege to have known Dr. Norman since my childhood. We shared the same birthday. He gave me my first tennis racquet, and in his last illness with faith told me that he was ready to meet his Lord.

He would commend to us the knowledge that reality belongs to the world of the Spirit, and although we live so much of our lives in the world of atoms and energy, only in the Lord can we trust for Eternity.

We have today the comfort of the Holy Spirit and the knowledge that our salvation consists not in what we do but that which Jesus Christ has done for us. We pray that our Heavenly Father will comfort us in this hour and be near unto all of his friends and loved ones in this trying time.

So we bid him farewell at sunset time, with endless gratitude for the day we have shared, and with faith, too, that sunset is a true figure of his going, for sunset is only our limited way of seeing things. Nothing has happened to the sun, all is well there — and after sunset, sunrise!"

Alumni Achievement

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story is condensed from an original feature prepared by Erwin S. Koval, former staff writer for The Daily News, Huntingdon, now assistant publisher of the Estes Park Trail, Estes Park, Colorado.

IF THE FACTS of George Dolnikowski's life were set down by some author within a fictitious framework, an editor probably would reject it on the grounds that it was too fantastic.

Ten years ago George (Class of 1952) was a Russian inmate of a German prisoner of war camp. Three years ago, as a displaced person, he landed in America unable to read or write English and barely able to speak the language.

Now, he not only holds a B.A. degree in history from Juniata, but he also has served on the Summer faculty as a language instructor and at present is a graduate assistant at the University of Pennsylvania where he plans to obtain his master's degree in Germanic literature.

A College Janitor

This has been a meteoric rise for a fellow who started his American collegiate career as a part-time student because his regular job was that of college janitor. The pathway of life that has brought George to his present happy situation has been filled with roadblocks and was "mighty rough going" at times. But in looking back over it, George says "it seems like everytime I came to a fork in the road, something took care of me and headed me for the best."

George was born in a Russian town which he prefers not to mention for he has two brothers living in Russia, so far as he knows, and he does not want anything to happen to them on his account.

His father was an orchardist and a member of the Greek Orthodox faith, and his religious convictions did not always agree with those of the Soviets. In 1936, because of their church beliefs, George's father and mother were seized and sent to Siberia. George escaped the same fate by being away from home visiting a brother at the time, and to this day he does not know what finally happened to his parents.

Attends Institute

Dolnikowski stayed in his brother's town of Voronezh, working at odd jobs and finally enrolling in a school — the Institute of Foreign Languages, where he studied German for three years. His idea was to become a teacher of the language.

In 1939, George traveled to Moscow to the State Pedagogical Institute of Foreign Languages to finish his course, and a year later he returned to Voronezh to teach at the same Institute where he had been a student.

For a while life was as pleasant as life possibly could be in Russia, but then war came with Germany. On June 22, 1941, the first day of the Russo-German conflict, George was drafted into the Red Army as an interpreter. He served on the Western Front until October, when he was wounded by a land mine and captured by a German patrol.

After hospitalization, he was confined to prisoner of war camps until March, 1945, when the Germans fled the Russian assault, leaving the prisoners. George made his way to Munich. "The story of that journey (about one month) would take three to four hours to tell," he grins. "Sometimes I was a German soldier, sometimes I was a Russian interpreter, sometimes I was a peasant."

Helped By Church

From Munich George went on to Salzburg, Austria, where he remained until 1949 working as a cook, carpenter, janitor, and stagehand with the famous Salzburg Music Festival. It was here that he became acquainted with the Church World Service Center and Mr. Joe Mow, Church of the Brethren representative.

With church assistance, George was able to make his way to New York with 1,282 DP's and from there to the Church of the Brethren processing center in New Windsor, Md. He stayed there for 10 days; then, on Saturday, Jan. 7, 1950, at four in the afternoon, he arrived on the campus at Juniata College. "That's a date I will never forget," says George, with a big smile.

The students and faculty made the

. . . and college janitor

GEORGE DOLNIKOWSKI '52 . . . As a College instructor

new janitor feel welcome. Dr. F. A. McKenzie, professor of sociology emeritus, helped him with English; Dr. Kenneth W. Crosby, professor of history who taught George in his first college course in American History, suggested that he set a long-range goal of obtaining a college degree.

That First 'B'

"When I received my first 'B,'" says George, "I was sure I could finish and get my degree, but I thought it would probably take me until 1956." Then another idea came to him. Since he had completed four years of college work in Russia, why couldn't some of those credits be applied toward an American college degree?

The college dean and registrar agreed to look into the matter. Acting on advice from the Office of Education's division of international educational relations, the college granted George 88 credit-hours by transfer. These, plus 42 which George completed at Juniata, made enough to meet the requirements for graduation. His bachelor of arts degree was awarded to him in June, 1952.

With aid and encouragement from Dr. George B. Clemens, professor of modern languages, George applied for graduate study and was accepted at University of Pennsylvania. Meanwhile, he accepted a position last Summer on the Juniata faculty to teach elementary and second-year German.

George is now on the staff at Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, instructing in German in addition to his study and teaching at Penn.

So George Dolnikowski has come a long way since the days when as a prisoner of war he had nothing to eat but turnips and cabbage, "and bread twice a year—on Christmas and Hitler's birthday." Patience, hard work, a good sense of humor, and an appreciation of what others have done to help him have gone into his success story.

Seek Judge's Office

TWO PROMINENT Huntingdon attorneys, Swirles L. Himes '27 and I. Newton Taylor '26, will seek the office of judge of Huntingdon County in the municipal primary scheduled May 19. The office has been vacant since the death of Judge Chester D. Fetterhoof, Acad '07.

Both have had extensive experience as lawyers in Huntingdon after graduation from law school. Himes was graduated from Dickinson School of Law in 1931; Taylor from University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1932.

At various times in their careers, each has served as part-time instructor on the faculty of Juniata. Taylor was district attorney of Huntingdon County from 1940 to 1948 and was County Solicitor from 1936 to 1940. Himes has served as solicitor for four Huntingdon County banks and for a number of boroughs and school districts, but he has not held public office.

Eleven Doctors

ELEVEN Juniatiens will be graduating from professional schools in the health professions this Spring to again indicate the major role which Juniata's science department shares in preparing men and women for the medical world.

Seven of the 11 will be graduating in medicine, three in dentistry, one in chiropody, according to Dr. Homer C. Will, chairman of the division of natural sciences. One of the seven in medicine is a coed.

The list includes four seniors at Jefferson Medical College—Frank L. Dorman, Elizabeth, Pa.; Donald D. Dunkle, Johnstown; David W. Kulp, Pottstown; and Raymond P. Seckinger, Johnstown, all Class of 1949. Two are seniors at Temple Medical School—A. Dalton James '49, West Chester; C. Beth Wenzel '48, Pittsburgh. Robert E. Dixon '48, is a senior at Hahnemann Medical College.

William D. Crain '51, Tyrone, is in the graduating class in dentistry at the University of Pennsylvania.

Oil Painting Features Community Education

HOBBY-MINDED housewives and professional painters alike—45 Huntingdon area men and women—gained “enjoyable experience” from a non-credit, night course in oil painting in Juniata College’s community educational program.

Obviously the most popular with the greatest enrollment in the 1953 Juniata series, the course revealed unsuspected talent under the instruction of Charles G. Pearce, art supervisor in the Tyrone public schools.

The course, one of eight in the adult education program which attracted 147 students, was set up for “those who are interested in learning to paint as well as those who already paint.” Administrators were required to divide the class into two sections to provide proper instruction.

Pearce, who also is teaching a course in applied art on the regular college staff, prepared his students for workshops in still life, landscape, and figure drawing and painting with orientations and demonstrations.

Not a newcomer to this field, Pearce has conducted extension classes in arts and crafts on previous occasions. He is a graduate of Indiana State Teachers College in art education and has taken graduate work at the Pennsylvania State College.

A “surprisingly good” registration was obvious in the entire program in Term A. Basic Photography, taught by Erwin Koval of the Daily News, Huntingdon, attracted 29 additional hobby-minded individuals.

Other educational courses offered on the “night campus” included Great Men and Great Issues in Our American Heritage; Business Letter Writing; Home Decoration; Beginning Spanish; Parliamentary Procedure. A course in Newswriting was given at the Fiberglas plant.

ELEVEN DOCTORS—

vania; Jay C. Weist '50ex, Ephrata, is a senior at Temple Dental School; and Fern E. Ewing '49, Richmond Furnace, Pa., is a senior in dentistry at University of Pittsburgh.

Richard H. Stever '49, Tyrone, will be graduated from the School of Chiropody, Temple University.

Industrial Chemistry Tour

The industrial chemistry seminar class of Juniata took a four day tour of industries in western Pennsylvania March 24-27. Nine students and two faculty members of the department of chemistry visited the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Bruceton; Koppers Co. works, Kobuta; St. Joseph Lead Co., Monaca; Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh; and the Aluminum Company of America research laboratories, New Kensington.

Summer Term at Juniata

Juniata College has scheduled its annual Summer Term with two five-week sessions beginning June 15 and continuing until August 21.

Class Newsletter Plan Is Well Under Way

THAT “AMBITIOUS PROGRAM”—the Class Newsletter idea—has already clicked and many of you have been recipients of letters from your Class Correspondent. All but a few of the men and women listed below have contacted the Alumni office and made arrangements for the Newsletter. It's very simple and proves to be loads of fun (and some work, too). Here's the idea: the Alumni office will provide class correspondents with an up-to-date class list. Then the correspondents will write a letter to all class members which will include a questionnaire prepared by the Alumni office. After an interval of time, the correspondents will compile and edit newsletters which will be multilithed by the Alumni office and mailed from Huntingdon to all members of the class. The participating classes and cooperating correspondents are listed here:

Air Hostess

OME FUNNY things can happen 15,000 feet in the air. That's the report from Sarah E. Keller '52, now an airline hostess with American Airlines.

"Bangs," as her classmates know her, claims that Juniata folks seem to be scattered "almost everywhere." She cites a personal experience: The crew on one of her flights called for coffee which she took to the cockpit. In the process she talked with the First Officer (co-pilot) who turned out to be a former Juniata student, William G. Gates. He's a graduate of Warriors Mark High School who attended Juniata in 1939.

Miss Keller's address is 1422 S. Denver Ave., Tulsa, Okla.

"I am teaching at the Wm. Penn Charter School in Germantown, Phila.," writes Louise Cray. "I have music in the Junior Division as well as the 'pianoing' for the upper school choruses."

Following a year's study abroad, Sherwood Cordier is now taking graduate work in history at the University of Minnesota.

Bill Murray is employed at the John Kerr Dam and Reservoir. "The work is awfully interesting," he writes, "partly because of my close association with the forester, reservoir manager, and powerhouse people ... I've learned to run a bulldozer, cut timber, operate boats and tractors, etc. I was on hand when the first of our huge hydroelectric units was turned over, got caught with others while fighting a forest fire, and with a ranger, found the body of a drowned hunter after an all-night search by boat with rescue parties. Really a wonderful opportunity to work outdoors most of the time and learn much from men proficient in engineering and other skills." Doris Quinell Murray has been working as a file clerk at the office there.

The engagement of Elma F. Stine to Mr. Howard E. Heckler was announced recently. An Appeal To Industry . . .

From The Independent Colleges

JUNIATA COLLEGE has joined 37 other independent Pennsylvania colleges in a "community chest" plan to help to increase the financial means available to these institutions "for the betterment of their educational facilities and services."

These colleges have formed "The Foundation for Independent Colleges," a non-profit corporation, to present a joint appeal to commercial and industrial concerns for support in the budget-balancing crisis.

The money raised will be equitably distributed among the member institutions "to supplement the funds of colleges," according to President Calvert N. Ellis, treasurer of the Foundation. Each college will continue to use its tuition, gifts and endowments as in the past.

Contributions to the Foundation will be used entirely for operating expenses, covering such items as faculty salaries, scholarship grants, and maintenance of plant, according to President Ellis.

A formula for distribution of gifts made to the Foundation has been agreed upon as follows:

1—One-third distributed equally among all participating institutions;

2—One-third distributed proportional to the number of full-time undergraduate students;

3—One-third distributed according to this factor: based upon the preceding five years, the average amount contributed to the institution in individual and corporation gifts and bequests, divided by the regular full-time undergraduate enrollment. Each college's figure, relative to the average figure among all participating colleges, will determine its share of this portion.

Present plans anticipate no appeal to the general public. The endeavor will be aimed solely at commercial and industrial concerns because of their "far greater stake in the survival of the independent colleges."

The Foundation has been granted a non-profit charter by the State and has located its headquarters in Harrisburg. Dr. Louis T. Benezet, president of Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., heads the new Foundation.

President Ellis was a member of the committee of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities which developed the present Foundation. He is vice-president of this Association and will become president next year. Meanwhile, he is serving as treasurer of the Foundation.

Commenting on "a very forward-looking step" which has been taken in establishing The Foundation for Independent Colleges, President Ellis explained that "organizations like the Foundation exist in at least fourteen states where successful plans are in operation."

"It is a recognition by industry of its debt to the independent colleges for its leadership," the Juniata president stated.

The 38 member colleges are: Albright, Allegheny, Alliance, Beaver, Bryn Mawr, Bucknell, Cedar Crest, Dickinson, Elizabethtown, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Haverford, Immaculata, Juniata, Lafayette, LaSalle, Lebanon Valley.

Lycoming, Marywood, Mercyhurst, Moravian, Mount Mercy, Muhlenberg, Pennsylvania College for Women, Rosemont, Seton Hill, St. Francis, St. Joseph's, St. Vincent, Susquehanna, Thiel, Scranton, Ursinus, Villanova, Waynesburg, Westminster, Wilkes, Wilson.
